FRIDAY, MAY 7.

COMPLIMENTS TO THE GOVERNOR.

The man of the hour seems to be Governor Rusk, who, appreciating the situation, acted promply and with singular discretion in sending the militia to Milwaukee to suppress the riots.

The Chicago Herald pays the governor this compliment: "The governor of Wisconsin, Gen. Jeremiah Rusk, is of the stuff that governors should always be made. He has not parleyed with the lawless nor has he deviated in any degree from his sworn duty. When he arrived in Milwaukee with a regiment of troops, a mob of strikers had already committed depredations in various places, and threats of further violence were freely made. He announced his purpose to preserve the peace, protect life and property, and enforce the law, and the troops at his command were used when needed with these ends in view. The casualties have not been numerous, but they have been on the right side—that of the rioters. A less vigorous policy would have been a bloodier one in the long run.

Then the Madison Democrat, which has been fearless in denouncing the leaders in the labor agitation and the promoters of the riot says: "Gov. Rusk, so far as yet appears, has performed his duty in a manner that will meet with the approval of the people. He went into Milwaukee and when satisfied that life and property was in danger he called the First regiment in there and then he directed the owners of industries closed by the mob to open their works. He stationed the troops in proper places with orders to load with balls and shoot to kill. Some rioting and some disturbance occurred but the factories were protected. The casualties among rioters were not large, but they evidently understand that they are not bossing the city just now. The most encouraging thing and the most commendable of all is that the governor has the backbone to not permit the troops to be stoned. The people of the state will be thankful for this. This fooling with soldiers has scandalized the country long enough. Any provocation that warrants calling into service troops, warrants their use for crushing force with force. If militia were always used in this way, as they should be, it would not be often that they would get a chance to shoot."

THE WAR ENDED.

Mob violence in Milwaukee has spent its force, the militia will be ordered home soon, and several of the socialistic leaders have been arrested and lodged in jail. When they shall have been promptly tried and justly punished, the country will breath much easier, mob law will cease, and the labor troubles will virtually be at an end.

In Milwaukee, where a number of anarchists have been locked up, guns, bayonets and ammunition were found in their beds, and dynamite caps were found stored away in a quarry vault. This shows that the rioters intended to resort to desperate means to carry their point. The grand jury has been called, and unless the authorities in Milwaukee grow faint-hearted, the socialists will be indicted and severely, but justly punished.

Out of all this comes a lesson for the Knights of Labor, who began the strikes, and plunged the country into excitement, Mr. Powderly has sent some very sweet words over the wires deprecating riots and denouncing the socialistic movement, and yet he permits the agitation to go on in his order. With one stroke of his pen he can stop the strikes, and put an end to the present unrest and excitement; but he will not, or at least does not. The Polack rioters in Milwaukee made the point with considerable force, that the Knights of Labor started the strikes for ten hours' pay for eight hours' work, and that they simply joined the Knights to make the movement a success.

Of course the Knights of Labor are opposed to lawlessness. The creed of the order is against it. General Master Workman Powderly is opposed to it. The masses of the organization, who are honest and industrious men, are opposed to it, and still the subordinate leaders who have more enthusiasm than common sense or judgment, are constantly getting the Knights into difficulty by recklessly ordering strikes when common understanding should teach them that to strike would impose a burdensome tax upon the strikers.

But Mr. Powderly says the order is getting so large and unwieldy that he cannot control all the assemblies, and that he has ordered that no more lodges be established at present. In violation of this order purporting to come from Mr. Powderly, that well known agitator Robert Schilling, is going about the country instituting new lodges and preparing the laboring men for war against those that feed them.

Mr. Powderly will do the working men under his control an act of special kindness and the country an excellent service by calling a halt so far as strikes are concerned. Call for arbitration where there are differences to settle and not order the men from work, and if these differences cannot be settled by arbitration, then let the workingmen exercise their right to quietly quit work if they can not afford to labor for the wages which manufacturers offer. This course will bring about a commendable order of things, the Knights will save money by it and the organization will prove a boon instead of an injury.

Alderman Rudzinski, a Polack leader of Milwaukee, is in part responsible for much of the disturbance in that city. On Thursday Governor Rusk sent for him and he appeared before His Excellency at the armory, and this is what the courageous governor said to him: "It is reported that threats have been made to injure the property of the members of the Kosciusko guard. Now I want you to tell your people that such a course will not be permitted. If anything happens to them, you will be held responsible for the consequences. The men did their duty in responding to my call, and as long as they are in the service of the state they shall be protected. I will protect them if I have to clean out your whole ward." That is the kind of talk that will make the Polack rioters do some thinking.

The Oregon State democratic convention finished its business Wednesday and adjourned. The following is the complete ticket: For Governor, Sylvester Pennoyel, of Portland; for congress, N. L. Butler, of Polk county; supreme court judge, R. S. Strahan, of Albany; secretary of state, B. F. Gibbon, of the Dalles; treasurer, G. W. Webb, of Pendleton; printer, Charles Nickell, of Jacksonville; superintendent of public instructions, J. R. N. Bell, of Roseburg.

B. J. Sampson, of Galena, Ill., one of the twenty-seven cadets discharged from the service under the ruling of Secretary Chandler, in 1882, in compliance with an act of congress reducing the naval force, has been ordered to report for duty at Brooklyn, with pay from July 1, 1882, to March 1, 1886. The other cadets have also been restored to their positions.

A DINNER WITH AN AZTEC.

The Sort of Reform Most Needed in Mexico—At the Family Board.

The way I came to find the old count I have been describing was this: I was trying to locate the spot where Cortez landed from his brigatines, when he came down from Tezcuco and destroyed the city after months of siege. And by chance I fell in with a Mexican Indian whom I had known in California, and who was now married, had a large family, and lived in one of the wretched houses at No. 1.

Mexican hospitality is proverbial. And how I wished it was not a cause for serious offense to decline the invitations to dinner after I had looked in upon this kindly but wretched family! Here was a most beautiful girl of 15, brown as a berry; the prettiest dimpled little hands and hair that fairly gleamed in its glossy blackness. There were three miserable, puny little boys; one big boy, a man grown, who held a small commission in the army; and then the wrinkled, hollow-eyed, and sallow old mother. Yet all this family, with all the light shut out, with death in the damp, deep walls down under the rotting floor, and all about them, in fact, lived in this one room; did their cooking there, ate their food there, and, indeed, did not feel at all inferior to others. For, this, as said before, is a middle-class Mexican home. Come down here some Christian, and build cottages. Heavens! why could not another Cortez come and lay all those dens level with the dust? I think you now can begin to see what sort of reform is most needed in Mexico.

At the dinner the Aztec head of the house, who, by the way, is a clerk in the palace, and so, you see, no ignorant mendicant, sat with myself and a small Indian officer at a table. But the family ate from a grass mat on the floor. The sweetly pretty girl I may mention, left the house when I entered, and did not come back during all the dinner. This is a custom. I might call on my old California friend a thousand times and yet each time the pretty girl would quietly slip away with only a word or two. The modesty and the purity of the women here in Mexico is most remarkable: one of the pleasantest features of all this pleasant land. A Mexican-Indian dinner is a singular compound of peppers, soups and corn cakes, or tortillas, with peppers tremendously in the ascendant. To make a frank confession to you, before I got half was through that dinner I shed so many tears that I was rather glad the pretty girl was gone.

I suppose I was the first white man that had entered that unwholesome court—except to collect rent, bring in or take out a coffin, and so on; and there were crowds of little children all around, but not one came to peep in at the open door or take any notice of my presence.

The head of the house, the old California friend, read a short grace from a book in Spanish, when we sat down, in which all the family joined reverently as they sat around their beans and peppers on the floor, for these people are all very religious, but beyond that nothing notable took place. The dinner was soon over, and we went sauntering back over the canal or wall into the city and under the warming sun, as the Aztec quietly said, "I love God, but I hate the Spaniards."—Joaquin Miller's Mexican Letter.

Catching a Man-Eating Shark.

The ferocity of sharks is often exaggerated. The man-eater, as a rule, is a coward, and unless starved will not face a determined enemy: often a slight splash will send him off. In the Gulf of Mexico I have often dived from a wharf where man-eaters, ten and twelve feet long, had been seen passing but a few minutes before; but the swimmers numbered ten or twenty, and their noise had always prevented an attack, so none was feared. We frequently swam singly and in parties over a channel where a shark-hook, baited with a grouper, would be taken any time, yet an accident never occurred. This was many years ago, and, curiously enough, I never enjoy swimming in open water now, even in the north, from a dread of sharks. The only time I was ever followed was once in wading over the reef in about three feet of water, when a young shark four feet long started after me, but I reached the dry reef well ahead.

On one occasion we had hooked a large shark, and we were steadying the boat, that was rushing along at a rapid rate, so that it would not capsize, when I happened to look overboard and saw four or five large sharks swimming along ten feet or so beneath the surface, their sides turned slightly upward, evidently interested in what was going on. They followed us some time, leaving when we got our captive alongside. No more exciting sport than sharkfishing can be had, and I have often handled a man-eater from the beach, and brought him in shore, the secret being simply to have plenty of line. Two hundred yards of rope, about the size of a clothes-line, though of better quality, was what I used, and by hauling and slacking the largest shark will soon be drowned. Ten or twenty men were often required to haul these monsters upon the beach, and when they came out struggling and leaping, the long black remorns clinging to their tawny sides, it was an inspiring spectacle. I tried keeping a man-eater in confinement, but it was not a success. He lived six months, but refused food, varying from fresh grouper to live cats from the first, and at last died, presumably from starvation. His jaw, that would easily slip over my head, graces the cabinet of the Museum of Natural History, of New York.—San Francisco Call.

HUNTING FOR DYNAMITE.

CHICAGO POLICEMEN LOOKING UP ANARCHIST HEADQUARTERS.

Two Wounded Rioters and Some Dangerous Weapons Dug Out of Dark Corners.

All Quiet at Last, with a Prospect of Remaining So—Situation at Milwaukee—An English Socialist Defends His Chicago Friends—Two More Policemen Dead—Strike Notes.

CHICAGO, May 7.—Shortly after noon Thursday Capt. O'Donnell and a detachment of officers swooped down upon the office of The Budononost, a Bohemian paper published at 616 Center avenue. The location has long been known to be the hot-bed of socialism in Chicago. The place had evidently been deserted in a hurry and nothing was found except anarchist circulars and wall mottoes. The circulars were similar to the speeches usually made by these quack doctors of the body politic and the mottoes were, like the circulars, printed in Bohemian and German—the latter by far the most gory, the following being specimens: "Down with the employers, throne, altar, and money bags. Let us in unison destroy them." "Misery is the visitor of the poor; the rich know not want, and the people's pity beckons revolution and death." "Work is freedom, freedom is bread; therefore let the poor man fight with us until death." About fifty small black flags, the staffs of which were stained with blood, were among the furnishings of the room, besides a number of red flags and large red banners bearing riotous legends. The entire contents of the room were confiscated by the officers and the locality is now guarded from every point.

A WOUNDED ANARCHIST FOUND.

While on this raid Captain O'Donnell made a startling discovery. Upon a miserable cot in the rear of No. 16, Fisk street, was stretched the form of a man whose pinched features gave every evidence of extreme bodily suffering. On examination he was found to be shot through the leg and after confessing that he received his injury at the Haymarket riots he was taken to the Twelfth street station. He stated that his name was John Michalski, that he was a telegraph operator and painter and that he was born in Poland and came to America last September. He gave a rambling and incoherent account of his presence at the outbreak, but failed to account for the murderous weapon found under his bed—a huge blunderbuss, manufactured in Prague. His statements are so disconnected and unnatural that the officers will hold him for further developments. In appearance he is the true type of the imported nihilist.

"They're lying mighty low," said Sergeant Kennedy, who, with sixteen officers, was stationed at the corner of Eighteenth street and Center avenue, the hot bed of anarchism. "I don't know what it means. It may be a lull in the storm, and it may be that the backbone of the great strike has been broken. I am inclined to the former opinion." A score of police officers patrolled the narrow dirty streets dispersing crowds wherever found.

DISCOVERY OF DYNAMITE BOMBS.

Captain Schack raided several anarchist dens in the north division of the city. In one place he found three dynamite bombs. One is about four inches in diameter and the other two, each two inches. Each of the missiles is of lead in two halves, clumped through the centre by an iron axis held in place by an ordinary screw and nut. Each has an aperture for the fuse and explosive cartridges, and the latter, separated from the bomb, are also in the hands of the police. Two other explosives were discovered on Sigel street, near Seigwick.

SPIES' BROTHER MORTALLY WOUNDED.

Captain Schack found Henry W. Spies, brother of the anarchist under arrest, at 60 McReynolds street. He was in bed suffering from a wound through the body. He admitted having been shot in the Haymarket riot. He will die.

A POLISH "STATESMAN" TALKS.

A Polish anarchist said Thursday afternoon:

"We may be whipped now, but we are bound to win in the end. The arrest of Spies and Fielden will not stop the agitation. We expect to lose some of our best men in a great movement like this. All organizations of men must meet with misfortune when they set out to accomplish some great end. But there are others to fill the gaps. We are stronger to-day than we were a week ago. We have shown our power and some day we will make that power felt in a way that will convulse the earth."

"How do you propose to begin?"

"We have begun. Look at the mills about us. Are they not closed?"

"Certainly; but is it your purpose to keep them closed?"

"Oh, no. We have simply demonstrated that young as we are we have the power to cripple the greatest industries of Chicago."

"And the police too?"

The anarchist shrugged his shoulders and smiled grimly: "Yes" he continued, "the police too, and bigger men than they for that matter. The mills will be permitted to start up in due season. We merely wanted to strike our first blow. The people have felt its weight."

TWO MORE POLICEMEN DEAD.

Police Officer John Barrett, who was injured at the Haymarket square riot, died at the county hospital at 11:30 a. m. Thursday. At 11 p. m. Officer George Miller expired at the same place. This makes three policemen in all that have died from the effects of the wounds received at that riot, while Officers Hansen and Flavin are not expected to live. All of the other policemen injured will recover.

The fund for the benefit of the families of the dead and wounded policemen now amounts to nearly $30,000.

AN EXCITING DAY AT CUMMINGS.

Thursday was an exciting day at Cummings, the last of the scabs being driven from that place. During Wednesday night a procession of 300 marched through the streets, headed by men pulling a small cannon and a man bearing a double-barreled shot-gun. In front of each scab's house the procession stopped, fired a salute, and, after searching for scabs and finding none, marched on. Ex-Boss Scott's house and that of Superintendent McCloud were also visited and given a salute, while the crowd hissed, jeered and cried "ba!" in derision of the black sheep. The result of this demonstration was that the "black sheep" left the town at 5:30 p. m., escorted by police. They numbered fourteen.

THE RAILWAY COMPANIES.

Most of the railroad companies opened their houses Thursday and made a show of doing business. Eighty men imported from the country were at work in the Galena division of the Northwestern, under police protection. The Madison division of the Northwestern, extending westward along Kinzie street, was the scene of some confusion during the morning. About 100 raw hands were put at work in the houses and continued all day. Their usefulness was much abridged by the desertion during the morning of the twenty switchmen doing duty along the line. When the latter came back late in the afternoon they explained that they were not on strike and would be at work in the morning as usual. At the St. Paul, Burlington, Fort Wayne and Alton the situation was much the same as Wednesday. The Lake Shore did no business, except by the hands of a few clerks. The Rock Island opened its house under police protection, and did a little with the help of some new men. The New Albany house was opened for the first time during the strike for delivery in a small way. The Grand Trunk, having given its men until Friday morning to come back, was doing practically nothing meanwhile. The Wabash has augmented its force of imported men, and is in fair condition.

STRIKE OF SWITCHMEN.

At noon Thursday afternoon switch tenders employed by the Western Indiana company, in the Town of Lake, went out on strike. They demanded an increase of $10 per month, which was promptly refused. At Fortieth street the gates were swung across the tracks. Train men would not move the gates, and the strikers requested outsiders not to interfere. The Louisville & New Albany, Chicago & Atlantic, Grand Trunk, Wabash and Eastern Illinois companies are lessees of the Western Indiana through the town of Lake, and as a result of the strike all were discommoded. A number of passenger trains were delayed several hours. At 4 p. m. the Western Indiana officials had the gates taken down and traffic was resumed. At 6 o'clock the yards were cleared of all outsiders. John Drury, president of the Switchmen's union, was on the grounds. He said the union had nothing to do with the present difficulty.

INTENTIONS OF THE LUMBER MEN.

It is said that an effort will be made by the lumber firms to put all their business in motion at 7 o'clock Monday morning with such of their old forces as desire to return, and then call upon the police for protection. Meanwhile there are threats to burn the mills and their immense stocks of dressed and undressed lumber. All the yards are guarded by special officers.

OTHER STRIKES.

The Deering Harvester company compromised with their men by giving a raise of 15 per cent all around and reducing time to eight hours. The offer was unanimously accepted and the men have gone back to work.

Peter Wahler, sash doors and blinds, tried to start up Thursday morning. His men were all willing to work but a mob collected, and it was thought best to abandon the attempt.

There was no change in affairs at Pullman, all the strikers were still out for eight hours and 10 per cent. increase in wages. The wages of the hands run from $8 to $40 per week.

PEACE PREVAILS AT MILWAUKEE.

Grottkau and Other Men of Blood in the Bastile—Dynamite Talk.

MILWAUKEE, May 7.—Were it not for the presence of the state troops a stranger might not divine what fearful scenes were witnessed here during the last two days in and around the city. Everything is quiet now. The awfulness of death proved too much even for the most radical of the socialists, who succeeded so well in using the easily stirred up and misled Polanders to further their own schemes. The arrest of Grottkau had a great deal to do with pacifying the malcontent strikers. Threats of revenge by socialists were frequently made Wednesday, but not carried out. Members of the Central Labor union Thursday morning employed counsel for Grottkau, but their attempt to have him released on bail proved futile, they not being able to raise the required sum of $5,000. Gustav Roessler, who was arrested with him, also under the charge of inciting riot, came to Milwaukee two weeks ago from Chicago. Both of them will be indicted by a grand jury, the call for which has been issued.

The Polanders are loud and emphatic in their condemnation of the course taken by Governor Rusk. The relatives of some of the victims intend to sue the state for damages. Additional reports of casualties came in making the total sixteen. Most of them are considered not fatal, however.

Thursday noon Frank Heith, a cigarmaker, and Charles Simon, a barber, both of them bloody anarchists, were arrested. They have been very loud-mouthed, but were not considered dangerous, having but little influence. A number of guns and several hundred rounds of ammunition were found in their houses and confiscated. Thursday night A. Messenger, another anarchist, was arrested and not admitted to bail. This makes the fifth, and they will all be brought before the grand jury May 18.

Thursday afternoon it was discovered that the dynamite vault in Stark Bros.' stone quarry near the city had been broken open and 500 caps and two bars of dynamite stolen. No trace of the thieves was found. The anarchists have made threats lately that they would blow up the court house, but no further trouble is expected.

The troops at Bay View have been withdrawn and taken to the armory on Broadway. The Light Horse squadron was on duty all day in different parts of the city but everything was quiet. The socialists held a mass-meeting at the base ball grounds during the afternoon, but it was a very tame affair.

A BRITISH SOCIALIST'S VIEWS.

Bad Opinion of Chicago Police and Business Men.

LONDON, May 7.—Conversation with representative socialists and labor agitators here reveals the fact that they consider the Chicago riots to have been provoked by arbitrary acts on the part of the authorities.

Hyndman, the leader of the socialist party, spoke freely on the subject. He said: "I have no sympathy whatever with anarchist tactics, but the Chicago police are notoriously brutal. It is almost a civil war which is most untimely for the general economic movement in favor of socialist ends."

"But would you, under any circumstances, defend an action like that of the Chicago anarchists?"

"Certainly, if the right of free speech is interferred with by the police."

"Are you personally acquainted with any leading anarchists in Chicago?"

"No; but Chicago is the very city where, having visited it several times, I should expect such an outbreak. The capitalists there are more sensual and more bestial in their vices than perhaps any city in the world. The workers, therefore, see that the wealth coming out of their labor is prostituted to its basest ends."

He said the social democracy favored production in the interest of the whole community. This might have to be brought about by organized force, but they desired peaceful revolution, even with the consent of the well-to-do classes. He concluded:

"I have some thoughts of putting myself in the hands of a lecture agent to deliver a series of addresses in America upon the present condition of Great Britain and Ireland as well as reminiscences of the revolutionists I have known."

Down on the Red Flag.

CINCINNATI, May 7.—Phoenix Assembly Knights of Labor, No. 1780, composed of tin, copper, and sheet-metal workers, has adopted resolutions denouncing the red flag of the commune, and calling upon all union men, who consider themselves American citizens, to suppress such organization that exist like the one that carries that flag as enemies of all honest workingmen.

Meetings were held in every ward Thursday night to organize a safety committee and 300 special policemen have been sworn in. The chamber of commerce proposes to raise $2,500 to pay the expense.

The strike shows no change. The work of improving the streets is at an absolute standstill, all of the men, laborers, pavers and workers of every degree being out. The controversy between the drivers and the board of public works is not settled.

Progress in New York.

NEW YORK, May 7.—Two firms have granted the furriers' demands, but the men of most of the shops are still out. The carriage workers are still out. About 900 marble workers struck Thursday for nine hours and better pay. The varnishers have mostly gone to work, their demands being granted. The piano-makers' strike is still unsettled, and the result depends on Steinway's men, who have not struck. All the elevated train men who asked for $2 a day have been granted $1.50. They remain at work. The Newark carpenters' strike has ended, the men obtaining the advance demanded. The Newark plumbers are out. The bosses offer to grant eight hours, but not increased pay.

The Congressional Committee at Ft. Worth.

FORT WORTH, TEX., May 7.—The subcommittee of the special labor committee arrived here Thursday. Receivers Brown and Sheldon and Messrs. Noble, Wheller and Herron, of the Texas & Pacific accompanied them. A committee of citizens met them at the depot and escorted them to the hotel. There was nothing new in the testimony offered before the committee. One brakeman said the officers fired first at the riot during the strike but other witnesses all said the officers were attacked and fired on before they returned the fire. Testimony as to injury to business was taken. One merchant said his business fell off one-third.

Most Hurrahs for Chicago.

NEW YORK, May 7.—The Herald claims to have found Herr Most in this city, and publishes an interview with him in which he hurrahs for Chicago and says the work done last Tuesday night is the beginning of the social revolution in America, inaugurated through his teachings. He declares that the suffering workingman has at last decided to throw off the yoke of his oppressor. He alludes to the police as accursed dogs, rejoices in their misfortunes, and hopes they may die lingering deaths, full of pain and torment. As for himself, he will, like Marat, bring about the revolution while in hiding.

Denouncing Chicago Rioters.

BUFFALO, May 7.—The plumbers' strike remains unchanged. Both sides remain firm. The strikers held a meeting Thursday and adopted resolutions denouncing the Chicago rioters and expressing sympathy for the families of the officers who fell while in the discharge of their duty.

Spurned with Contempt.

BOSTON, May 7.—The striking carpenters held a rousing meeting in Columbia rink Wednesday night and listened to addresses and very encouraging reports. Resolutions were adopted spun with contempt the arrogation of the title "Master" by the carpenter contractors.

Struck Against the Store System.

PHILADELPHIA, May 7.—Six hundred employes of Rhodes' cotton-mill, at Leni, Pa., have struck against the company's store system, which they say eats up all their wages.

Time on the Turf.

WASHINGTON, CITY, May 7.—At Ivy City the spring meeting of the National Jockey club opened Thursday. The weather was cloudy, the track fair, and the attendance good. First race, ¾ mile dash, Favor won; Lord Lorne second; time, 1:16½. Second race, 1 mile, Dry Monopole, first; Duke of West Moreland second; time, 1:43½. Third race, 1⅝ miles; Beersan first, Tomasia second; time, 1:57½. Fourth race, 1⅝ miles; Springfield first, John C second; time, 1:50. Fifth race, steeplechase, Hostage was the only one of the five starters that came in; Modoc fell on the first jump and seriously injured his rider; time, 5:56.

NEW YORK, May 7.—There was a large crowd and good racing at Brighton Beach, Thursday. First race, ¾ miles; Delilah first, Fleetwing second; time, 1:04. Second race, ¾ mile; Endover first, Millo second; time, 1:17. Third race, ¾ mile; Valley Forge first, Witch second; time, 1:17¾. Fourth race, 1 mile; Easter Sunday first, Tattler second; time, 1:44½. Fifth race, 1⅛ miles; over 5 hurdles; Ecuador first, Bonore second; time, 2:20¾.

Escaped the Mob's Fury.

APPLETON, Wis., May 7.—A mob of about 300 men gathered about the jail Tuesday night to do violence to Stewart, the prisoner charged with an assault upon a 9-year-old daughter of Mr. Lake. They made many threats against the life of the prisoner, and attempted twice to get into the jail. An active police force, was on guard, however, and easily kept the men back. If the mob had had a determined leader serious trouble would no doubt have taken place. To avoid another scene of the kind Sewart was quietly arraigned before the circuit court Wednesday afternoon, where he pleaded guilty and was sentenced to prison for nine years, one year less than the extreme penalty. He was immediately placed in a carriage and hurried to Waupun.

Long and Wicked Prize Fight.

NEW YORK, May 7.—One of the longest and wickedest prize fights seen for many a day was fought up-town Thursday evening. Tommy Danforth and Charley Ellingsworth were the principals. Ellingsworth proved his superiority as a long range fighter, but Danforth's execution at short distance was much more effective. In the thirty-second round Danforth caught Ellingsworth napping and gave him a right-hander on the point of the jaw with terrific force, felling him like a log. Ellingsworth did not revive for fully a minute, and the fight was awarded to Danforth. The battle lasted two hours and twenty-eight minutes. The purse was subscribed by Wall street men.

A Column of Fire 200 Feet High.

WASHINGTON, Pa., May 7. — The Thayer Stettheimer No. 2 well, the largest oil producer in the field, was set on fire by lightning Wednesday night, and is throwing a column of flame 200 feet high. Surrounding property is endangered, and the country is lighted up for miles around. The well was worth $100,000.

Judge David Davis Seriously Ill.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., May 7.—The attending physician of ex-Vice-President David Davis, is of the opinion that he is doing well but still grave fears are entertained that he may not rally from his attack, which is indeed serious. The malignant carbuncle on his back is terribly swollen and causes him the most intense suffering. He is much reduced in flesh and strength.

Insanity is on the increase. Statistics show this. Many cases are brought on by overwork, anxiety, excitement, metal trouble and nervous prostration; it is also inherited. Invariably sleepless and constipation manifest themselves before one becomes insane. Constipation induces dyspepsia, jaundice, bad breath, piles, low spirits, headache, etc. Dr. Jones' Red Clover Tonic relieves constipation, thereby curing these diseases. Price, 50 cents. By druggists.

Start for the Train or Boat.

In good season, and don't forget to take with you Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which will revive and benefit you when fatigued; will nullify the hurtful effects of water contaminated with zinc from the ice cooler, or stagnant and brackish; relieve indigestion produced by meals of uncertain wholesomeness, hastily bolted at all times in railway stations, and protect you from the influence of vitiated or malarious air and thorough draughts. To the traveling public this admirable safeguard and specific is tendered in a convenient and agreeable shape. An ordinary ship's medicine chest contains no such comprehensive and reliable remedy, a fact well understood by mariners. The commercial traveler, tourist, emigrant, miner and western pioneer all appreciate the value of the Bitters. It cures dyspepsia, costiveness, liver complaint, malarial disorders, inactivity of the kidneys and is a fine nerve tonic.

MILLIONS FOR RIVERS.

FIFTEEN MILLIONS OF DOLLARS FOR WATERWAY IMPROVEMENTS,

With a Prospect That the Senate Will Add a Few More—An Adverse Report on Woman Suffrage—Vance on Inter-State Commerce—Mexican Pensions.

WASHINGTON CITY, May 7.—The river and harbor bill passed the house Thursday afternoon by forty-one majority after a struggle through several weeks. The contest has been earnest and persistent from the beginning in respect to certain features of the bill. It was hoped it might be possible to cut down the aggregate to $8,000,000, or at least reduce to $10,000,000, but the appropriations had been distributed judiciously for the purpose of giving the committee ample support, and the combination was safely led to the end by Willis, of Kentucky, who is also the ardent champion of the $77,000,000 education bill. The aggregate appropriations recommended by the river and harbor committees was not materially increased, but it is expected that the senate will add from $2,000,000 to $5,000,000, in which event a veto is not improbable, or the president may approve the bill and order the expenditure of only such part of the amount as he may deem necessary. Among the important points of attack upon the bill were the items relating to the control of the appropriations for the Mississippi and Missouri rivers, and the application to be made of the money appropriated for improvement of the Mississippi between Cairo and the head of the passes. Holman of Indiana, Hepburn of Iowa, and others insisted, as they have done in former congresses, that, as the work on the lower Mississippi is experimental, the money should be used to try the experiment at two points only—namely, Plum Point and Lake Providence reach, instead of dredging and levee-building for hundreds of miles along the course of the river. Thursday the decisive vote resulted in the adoption of the policy of concentration of the effort at improvement of that wayward stream as proposed by Holman. Hepburn was also successful in securing a majority in favor of taking the control of the improvement of the Mississippi and Missouri out of the hands of the respective commissions appointed for that purpose and placing the works under the immediate direction of the war department. The representatives from the lower Mississippi valley console themselves with the belief that the senate will restore the two commissions and disagree to the Holman amendment. The affirmative vote on the passage of the bill consisted of fifty-five Republicans and eighty-eight Democrats. The negative vote was cast by forty-four Democrats and fifty-eight Republicans.

The negative roll in full is as follows: Allen of Massachusetts, Allen of Mississippi, Atkinson, Beach, Bliss, Blount, Bound, Boutelle, Bragg, Brown of Pennsylvania, Brumm, Buck, Bynum, Felix, Campbell of New York, Campbell of Ohio, Campbell of Pennsylvania, Campbell of New York, Candler, Cobb, Cooper, Cowles, Dingley, Dockery, Dowdney, Eden, Eldridge, Ely, Ermentrout, Evans, Everhard, Ford, Fuller, Green of New Jersey, Grout, Hale, Halsell, Harmer, Hayden, Haynes, Henderson of North Carolina, Hepburn, Hewitt, Hiestand, Hires, Hiscock, Hitt, Holloman, James, Johnson of North Carolina, Ketcham, Lafoon, La Follette, Laird, Landes, Hehlbach, Little, Long, Lowry, Lyman, Mahoney, Matson, McAdoo, McComas, Merriman, Millard, Milliken Morrill, Muller, Osborne, Perkins, Peters, Phelps, Pidcock, Pindar, Randall, Ranney, Reed of Maine, Reid of North Carolina, Rice, Richardson, Robertson, Rockwell, Ryan, Seney, Sowden, Spooner, Spriggs, Springer, Steele, Stone of Kentucky, Stone of Maine, Storm, Struble, Swope, I. H. Taylor of Ohio, Thomas of Wisconsin, Waits, Ward of Indiana, Weaver of Iowa, West, Winans, Worthington—102.

THE INTER-STATE COMMERCE BILL.

Camden's Amendment Opposed—Vance Wants More of the Same.

WASHINGTON CITY, May 7.—Camden's amendment to the inter-state commerce bill has very much displeased some of the friends in the senate of a measure to regulate commerce between the states. This state of things was made more so Thursday by Wilson's amendment which prohibits a railway from charging as much for a haul of 100 miles as for 1,000 miles. Hoar, Allison, Cullom, and Brown of Georgia, spoke against these amendments, and said they meant the destruction of our foreign market for grain and other western products. Allison said it would be impossible for people of Iowa to get their products to market. Cullom said the rule, if rigidly enforced, would destroy the commerce of the west. Not only would it hurt the producer of the west, but very seriously also the consumer of the east.

Brown contended that it would be highly injurious. It would be simply impossible for the people of Illinois, Iowa or any other state of the west to get its produce to the markets of the east or Europe. Under its provisions no commerce would be conducted with places more than 500 miles distant from any given point. This would be ruinous to the interests not only of the railroads but of the people.

Vance saw no injustice in the Camden amendment. The bill, he thought, even with that amendment, fell far short of doing justice to the people. We had been warned so often of the danger of interfering with commerce that it was proposed to stop short for the present with this modest proposition and then wait to see whether the world would come to an end. [Laughter]. It reminded him of a story. A white man once ordered a drink of "Jersey lightning," and seeing an oleaginous African standing by, gave him the drink, and when asked why he did not take it himself, replied: "If that nigger ain't dead in fifteen minutes I'll take some." [Laughter]. The senate was going to try this bill as amended, and if a cataclysm did not occur senators would thank God and take courage. The railroads were bringing freight at low rates from Chicago and maintaing their roads by extortion on the local freights all along the line.

FOR RIVERS AND HARBORS.

About Fifteen Millions appropriated by the House—Congressional Notes.

WASHINGTON CITY, May 7.—After the arrangement of several special orders in the senate Thursday, the inter-state commerce bill was amended by prohibiting the construction of Camden's amendment in such manner as to permit railways to charge as much for taking freight 100 miles as for 1,000 miles. Hoar, Cullom and Brown, declared that the Camden amendment alone would destroy the commerce of the west, and increase the cost of breadstuffs in the east. It was agreed that the bill should be finally acted upon before adjournment next Tuesday. The committee on labor reported favorably a bill making eight hours a day's work for letter carriers. The Senate held an executive session and then adjourned until Monday.

The bill proposing a constitutional amendment providing for woman suffrage was reported adversely to the house. A favorable report was made on the proposition to appropriate $30,000 to survey a water route to connect Detroit river with Lake Michigan. An attempt to take up the bill to create a department of agriculture and labor was defeated by dilatory tactics, headed by Hewitt of New York, and the house took up the river and harbor bill, and after a short discussion in committee, passed it. The appropriations for the lower Mississippi and Missouri are to be expended without the intervention of the commissioners appointed for those rivers. The bill appropriates about $15,000,000, and was not changed $100,000 from its original form. The vote on its passage was: Yeas, 193; nays, 102. The house adjourned at 5:30 p. m.

WILL TRY TO THROTTLE IT.

Alleged Republican Programme on the Tariff Bill.

WASHINGTON, CITY, May 7.—The Star says: "The protectionists have changed their plans of attack upon the tariff bill. At first the Republicans were anxious for a full discussion of the measure, that all the political capital possible might be got out of it. But they have since come to the conclusion that for several reasons it would be better to cut all debate off, if they can, and to kill the bill as it draws its first breath. The party has concluded that the best policy is not to allow the bill to be taken up for consideration. Under the present plan all the power of the protectionists will be used to defeat the motion to take the bill from the calendar whenever the motion is made. The vote on this motion will be a test of the strength of the bill."

Logan's Mexican Pension Proposition.

WASHINGTON, CITY, May 7.—Senator Logan in the senate Thursday offered an amendment to the Mexican pension bill, which, among other things, repeals the restriction upon the payment of arrears of pensions to soldiers and sailors of the late war in respect to claims filed prior to July 1, 1888, and confers the right to a pension upon persons disabled from any cause other than their own careless or vicious conduct, who served three months, if they are dependent for support upon their own labor. The amendment also increases all classes of existing pensions.

DARED TO DEFEND HIMSELF.

The Sequel is Judge Lynch and "a Convenient Tree."

NEW ORLEANS, May 7.—Wednesday in St. Bernard parish, W. P. Green, a plantation overseer, had a quarrel with Robert Smith, a negro laborer, and was knocked down with a billet of wood. Mr. Green armed himself, and accompanied by a friend, went to negro's cabin, and as he opened the door the negro, who suspected his mission, opened fire, which Green returned. The negro was slightly hurt, while Green was hit three times and fatally injured, dying Wednesday night. The negro was arrested and jailed early next morning. Shortly after Green's death a lynching party composed of whites and blacks went to the jail, took Smith out and hanged him to a convenient tree.

The Ohio Senate Botheration.

COLUMBUS, May 7.—The situation in the Ohio senate remains unchanged. The body was in session for a short time Thursday morning and adjourned to Friday morning. The seventeen Republicans and one Democrat were unable to transact business for want of a quorum. The only thing they can do is to compel the attendance of absentees, and they took the preliminary steps by authorizing the president to appoint a sufficient number of assistant sergeant-at-arms to bring in the absent senators. The sergeant-at-arms refused to make the appointments. The absent senators are reported to be in Kentucky.

The Gotham "Boodle Aldermen."

NEW YORK, May 7.—Six of the alleged "Boodle" aldermen were called to the bar in the general session's court, Thursday, to plead to an indictment charging them with receiving a bribe of $20,000 each in connection with the passage of the Broadway railway franchise. Five of them, Messrs. Farley, Duffy, Wendell, Cleary and McCabe, pleaded "not guilty." The other (Fullgraff) was not present.

BOSTON, May 7.—The senate bill allowing savings banks to invest in Cincinnati bonds was defeated in the house, Thursday, only two affirmative votes being recorded.

The Risk Run by Young Doctors.

Heard a story the other day which shows the risk run by young doctors. Two brothers, physicians, were called in to attend the child of a friend who was suffering with diphtheria. The poor little fellow was almost dead, when one of the doctors breathed through a tube into his throat and resuscitated the dying boy. He rallied for a time, but the disease had gone too far; the mucus had stopped up his throat at the windpipe and he died. The young doctor was subsequently taken down with diphtheria and lingered between life and death for several days. He is, however, now convalescent.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

The Looms of the Gobelins.

The Gobelins was so called from its founder, Jean Gobelin, in 1450. The state purchased its present site, near Paris, in 1662. Here are executed with the needle splendid specimens of carpet and tapestry. Some of the pieces of work have cost as much as $30,000, requiring the labor of five or ten years. The building, looms and many pieces of tapestry were destroyed by the communo in 1871. Here were made the tapestries and carpets which adorn the various palaces, or have been presented to royal foreigners.—Boston Budget.

ATHENS ABLAZE AGAIN.

THE GREEK CAPITAL HAS ITS WEEKLY WAR FEVER.

Europe Rejects the Latest of Delyannis' Propositions and Defiance to the Turk Pervades the Ancient City—The Powers to Use the Throttle.

ATHENS, May 7.—The reply to Premier Delyannis to the collective note of the powers demanding the restoration of the Greek army to a peace footing and the relinquishment of warlike designs upon Turkey, was delivered to the representatives of the powers Thursday afternoon. The answer was considered to be in every respect satisfactorery and inadequate, and the representatives will sever diplomatic relations with Greece and quit Athens at once.

This announcement has created the wildest excitement here. Everybody is eager for war. The streets are filled with people singing patriotic songs and shouting their defiance of the Turks. It is reported that the Athens garrison has been ordered to the front and will start immediately, and there is abundant evidence that the statement is true. The commander of the Greek troops on the frontier has telegraphed to the war office that the Turkish commander is massing his forces and says that the situation renders it imperative that he should similarly dispose his men, and he has given orders to mass the Greek troops at once. Several members of the chamber of deputies who are officers in the army have been ordered to proceed to the front. The soldiers belonging to the garrison here have been ordered to their barracks. A Turkish gunboat has arrived at the Piraeus.

Greece To Be Dragooned Into Amiability.

LONDON, May 7.—In the house of commons Thursday evening Mr. Gladstone said that the assurances given by Greek government that Greece would comply with the request of the powers were insufficient to justify Turkey in abandoning her preparations for defense. Unless Greece speedily replies to the collective note of the powers, the latter will immediately take requisite steps to enforce compliance.

FOREIGN MISCELLANEY.

Mormons Proselyting Swiss Girls.

GENEVA, May 7.—Mormon missionaries are actively engaged in all parts of Switzerland in securing converts to Mormonism, and confine their proselyting efforts almost exclusively to young women. To these they promise a condition of happiness and prosperity in Utah that rarely fails to increase the number of victims. Some of the Swiss converts who went to Utah a few months ago have written to their friends here bitterly bewailing their fate and warning others against embracing the Mormon faith; but the experience of these unfortunates seems to have little deterrent effect.

Want a New Government.

HALIFAX, N. S., May 7.—In the house of assembly Wednesday night the secretary gave notice of a motion that the members of this branch of the legislature of Nova Scotia are of the opinion that the financial and commercial interests of the people of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, and Prince Edward Island would be advanced by their confederation and uniting under one government; or, in default of that, that Nova Scotia again become an independent province of Great Britain.

The Home Rule Bill.

LONDON, May 7.—The Standard says the government is making strenuous efforts to induce the liberal members who are opposed to the Irish measure to refrain from voting when these bills come before the house of commons for discussion. It has finally been decided, the paper continues to proceed with the land purchase bill in spite of the opposition to the measure, and if it shall be rejected by a small majority, Mr. Gladstone advises immediate dissolution of parliament.

Orangemen Preparing for War.

LONDON, May 7.—The Daily Telegraph says the Orange societies throughout Ulster are actively continuing their preparations for fighting in the event of the success of home rule legislation in parliament and its establishment in Ireland. Promises of assistance have been received by them from England, Scotland and the colonies, and it is alleged by prominent Orangemen that 100,000 men, able and willing to bear arms, can be raised in Ireland alone at very short notice.

Bad Blood Over Minnie Palmer.

LONDON, May 7.—A magistrate of the Bow Street police court issued a summons, Thursday, for the arrest of Mr. John Rogers, manager of the Minnie Palmer company, for challenging Mr. Arnold, one of the company, to fight a duel. It is stated that the challenge was prompted by jealously on the part of Rogers, caused by the intimacy existing between Arnold and Miss Palmer.

CATARRH

ELY'S CREAM BALM.

I have used two bottles of Ely's Cream Balm and consider myself cured. I suffered 20 years from catarrh and catarrhal headache and this is the first remedy that afforded lasting relief.—D. T. Higginson, 185 Lake street, Chicago.

For cold in the head Ely's Cream Balm works like magic. It cured me of catarrh and restored the sense of smell.—E. H. Sherwood, banker, Elizabeth, N. J.

For 15 years I was annoyed with catarrh, recovered pain in my head, discharges into my throat and unpleasant breath. My sense of smell was much impaired. I have overcome these troubles with Cream Balm.—J. B. Case, St. Denis Hotel, Broadway, N. Y.

I was cured before the second bottle of Ely's Cream Balm was exhausted. I was troubled with chronic catarrh, gathering in head, difficulty in breathing and discharges from my eyes.—C. J. Corbin, 93 Chestnut street, Philadelphia, Pa.

A God send is Ely's Cream Balm. I had catarrh for three years. My nose would bleed and I thought the sores would never heal. Cream Balm has healed me.—Mrs. M. A. Jackson, Portsmouth, N. H.

It is wonderful how quick Ely's Balm has helped and cured me. I suffered from acute inflammation in my nose and head. For a week at a time I could not see.—Mrs. Georgie S. Judson, Hartford, Connecticut.

A particle of the Balm is applied into each nostril. It is quickly absorbed and allays inflammation. Causes no pain—is agreeable to use—convenient and cleanly. Sold by every druggist or sent by mail on receipt of price.

WHEN DOES OLD AGE BEGIN?

When does old age begin? At forty-five, it is said, the amount of combustion which keeps the furnace of the human body in blast commences to decrease and diminishes until three-score years and ten, more or less, when the fires are drawn and the flickering flame dies out. That is the physiological way of looking at it. But some men are old before they are out of their teens, while others apparently never grow old, though they live to be centenarians. The poet's way of looking at it is the best:

"Call him not old whose visionary brain
Holds o'er the past its undivided reign.
For him in vain the envious seasons roll
Who bears eternal summer in his soul."

This at least seems to be the way in which David Littell, of Sumner, Ia., looks at life, for though now in his eightieth year he has taken a new lease on life and is apparently determined to hold on to it. Athlophoros did it for him and he acknowledges his debt to it in terms of enthusiasm. Mr. Littell tells his own story:

"I was past seventy-seven and had been afflicted with rheumatism three years and eight months. I had lost one-third of my weight and could not walk, but shuffled along with crutches. Sleep had deserted me, my nerves were all shattered, and there was no strength in my hands, wrists, knees or feet. I could not sit down or get up out of a chair without help, and oh! such pain, worse at night than in the day. There was neither sleep nor rest, and the outlook was painful in the extreme.

"But thanks be to God and Brother Inskip for sending me a paper containing a notice of the cures made by Athlophoros and thanks be to you for sending me a bottle. It appears to me the hand of God is in it all the way, and if you did not hear me shout why then I did not shout loud enough, that is all. The medicine arrived one Saturday night after I had gone to bed. In the morning my son prepared me a dose of two teaspoonfuls in milk. I took it and felt it at once all over. After that I took but one teaspoonful at a time until I had finished the bottle. How did it act? Why, like a charm. On Monday morning I rose, dressed, and walked out into the kitchen without crutches or cane and wished them all a happy New Year.

"My pain is all gone and I rest well. My son, seeing such a great change in me, wrote for ten bottles in order, as he says, to make a permanent cure of it. It is all more like a dream than reality. I have written to four of my friends who are afflicted with rheumatism about the great medicine and I shall write to others, and in this way try to pay the debt of gratitude.

"Some fourteen months ago," says A. Hayward, of Burlington, Ia., "I was attacked with inflammatory rheumatism. I tried a dozen different kinds of medicine said to cure rheumatism, but to no purpose. Finally, I procured a bottle of Athlophoros. After using the bottle it did me so much good that I bought another, but did not have to use more than a third of the second bottle before I was entirely cured. From that time up to the present I have never had anything like rheumatic pains, and I thank Athlophoros for the cure."

Thomas McCue, Bush's block, Dubuque, Ia., whose wife was cured by Athlophoros of a terrible case of rheumatism, declares it was "truly a miracle in my wife's case."

If you cannot get ATHLOPHOROS of your druggist, we will send it express paid, on receipt of regular price—one dollar per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it, do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us, as directed. ATHLOPHOROS CO., 112 Wall Street, New York

THE SHADOW HAND.

The shadow hand from mystic realm
Is laid upon my brow;
It guides the ship like hand on helm
To stiller waters now.

It lifts the mantle of grim care
And calms the throbbing heart,
Until the shades of deep despair
From out my soul depart.

Oh, shadow hand of spirit sweet,
Be with me ever near,—
Make mortal life more full, complete,
Eternity more clear.

A CRAZE FOR FAC SIMILE FORMS.

Chicago Ladies Catching On to a Cute Yankee Notion in Dressmaking.

"The latest craze among Chicago ladies," said a dapper dressmaker as she showed a reporter into an easy chair in her studio, "is for Boston models or forms. Within the last month or two the business has been introduced here, though it is anything but new in Boston and New York. The best forms are made adjustable, and the lady buying one can use it her own sewing-room to fit her own dresses to, or send it to her own dressmaker, or use it for her daughter, or her mother. You are a man and therefore you do not know the fatigue a woman endures standing to have a dress fitted to her form."

You have nothing like it in tailoring for men. You don't know what it is, and therefore cannot appreciate the boon these forms are. By their use better results can be secured, too, especially by that large class of women who persist in making their own dresses. By use of these forms a lady can fit her own dresses to herself, as it were, and that is a big thing, I tell you. These forms are easily adjusted to a large or small person, and can be folded and put away like an umbrella. They make a papier mache which are not adjustable, but which are less expensive. By taking a tight-fitting waist to the store the lady can have a papier mache model to take home with her in an hour without any measuring of her person. That is, provided she be not unusually small, unusually large, or of a queer shape.

"But you men are not entirely barred. Forms are made for men and boys, the latter full length. By purchasing a coat-form the fashionable gentleman need never go near his tailor. By sending his form he can order coats when ever he likes, or leave a standing order to have a new coat turned out once a month, as I understand a certain young scion of a wealthy house does. Of course the same thing could be be done by leaving a measure, but not so satisfactorily. —Chicago Herald Interview.

A Railway Postal Clerk's Work.

Each crew runs for seven days with but very short "layoffs" between trains, and spends the next week at home. It is not a week of leisure, however. Hanging on the wall of his room each clerk has a chart of the postoffices and routes covered by the case next in order in the one on which he is working. Every office must be thoroughly memorized, so that when a little cross-road is mentioned he can instantly tell over what route it is reached. When first appointed, a postal clerk is taken on six months' probation, during which time he is paid $600 per year. If at the end of this time he has learned his "case" he is given a permanent place at a salary of $900 per year.

The requirements do not end here, for other states must be studied, and perhaps after he knows every fence corner and cross road in the United States, he gets $1,150. To be a head clerk one must know something more than mere postoffices and routes. Congressmen, senators and government officials are very necessary adjuncts to the promotion to that place. About $1,500 per year is the salary of a head clerk. Every error is charged up, and when a clerk has one hundred marks scored against him he is ordered to headquarters for examination, and when found deficient is reduced to a lower grade. With a train running forty miles an hour it is no easy task to stand upright, but when in addition one is required to throw letters into pigeon holes some four in hos square, well knowing that every mistake counts, the task becomes infinitely more difficult.—Cleveland Leader.

Features of St Paul's Churchyard.

There are two features of St. Paul's churchyard which always interest me. They are the working girls who eat their noonday lunch among the tombs, and the ancient dames who offer second-hand clothing for sale to their sex outside the railing. The girls take their freedom of the old churchyard as a pleasant recess from the close and busy workshop, and with the tomb of some dead and gone worthy of the New York of the past for a table, enjoy a daily picnic with as much real zest as if they were partaking of the best the Astor house kitchen could purvey for them. As to the venders of antique garments, my interest in them is based entirely on the fact that I never saw any one buy anything of them. They seem to have the same draggled and seedy dresses hanging from the spikes above them as they had a dozen years ago, and they sit in the same stolid and patient silence now as then, from early day till dark. —New York News "Babble."

The Force of Habit Illustrated.

"The force of habit is a wonderful thing," said the philosophizing passenger who expectorated upon the floor; "now, just to show you. I'm a photographer out in the country here a piece, and the other day I was sent for to take a negative of a dead man. At my suggestion his relatives propped him up on some chairs so that his position would be somewhere near natural, and then stood back while I took him. After focusing the lens I stepped out, looked to see that everything was all right, said 'now, hold still a moment, please,' and made the exposure. Right there was the first laughter that had been heard in that house for two weeks."—Chicago Herald.

NORWEGIAN WHALE HUNT

EXCITEMENT OF A CHASE AFTER THE MONSTERS OF THE SEA.

In the Middle of a Flock of Giants of the Sea—An Enormous Blue Whale—"Full Speed Ahead!"—A Shot at the Game—A Widowed Whale.

We are in the middle of a flock of giants of the sea. The enormous brown and blue bodies rise out of the sea; the back is bent upward, it looks like the bottom of a capsized ship; it disappears; but the sea becomes almost calm where the whale went down, and several minutes elapse before the waves are able to conquer the calm. From time to time deep-dull snorts are heard, thundering and trembling, as if the deepest strings of a dozen double-basses were being played down below: and at others, a sharp swishing sound, like an enormous fountain suddenly set to play, and a column of crystal spray ascends some thirty feet into the air. The gigantic, glistening body appears on the surface; the back is bent upward a second, and it again disappears. It looks as if the whale was warm and comfortable enough: the sea water, to us looking so cold, plays pleasantly around it; hot steam issues from its dilated nostrils, and it seems like a man enjoying a refreshing morning dip. During the last quarter of an hour we have seen some forty whales, but none have come within range. The gun has no certainty much beyond thirty yards, so that the whale must be nearly under the ship's bow when firing.

A GREAT COLUMN OF DAMPNESS.

As we stand looking at this magnificent spectacle, the water close around the ship suddenly becomes light green in color, and somewhat calm. Then a deep, heavy thunder; the ship trembles from stem to stern; a great column of dampness is shot into the air, drenching us all; a dull snort, and an enormous blue whale rises out of the sea a few yards on our starboard side. Now the captain will fire, we think, involuntarily holding on to the wire rigging; but Foyn stands by his gun without making the least movement, and the next second the whale again descends into its watery home. The range was probably not a good one. A few minutes after the same thunder, the same sensation, the same column and the same snort—another whale appears on the port side. The captain turns the gun, while we watch with beating hearts the movements of the animal as well as his own. Every second seems an eternity. He raises the gun, aims! Alas! a heavy sea strikes the vessel, heels her over; the gun is lowered, but the whale is gone. They seem all to have disappeared now, not a puff to be seen.

We stand and talk about the incident, and somebody suggests to go aft and "have a smoke;" when suddenly two whales are seen some distance off, now going side by side, now behind each other. The helm is turned, and we follow them in hot haste through wind and waves. A complete silence reigns on board during the pursuit, only now and then broken by the captain's short words of command, who stands calmly watching the animals. Now the vessel heels over—the whales are within range "Stop," sounds in the engine-room. But the speed was too great and we shot past them. "Full speed ahead," sounds again. "Two men at the helm!" The vessel turns swiftly, and we separate the couple. The whales disappear. We follow the direction they are taking, and look!—a little before us the sea becomes emerald green. "Slow," again. The vessel moves slowly forward, and the whale reappears twenty yards off. "Stop," shouts the captain.

A REPORT RENDS THE AIR.

The gun is turned, raised, and again lowered—not a sound is heard on board—the whale has puffed—the back is bending: the captain aims—and a thundering report rends the air, and makes the vessel tremble in every section. We have watched all this with every nerve strained, and hardly feel the icy foam of the sea which bedews the cheek and benumbs the hands.

"Did you hit him?" we shout to the captain.

"Don't know," is the laconic answer. "Almost absurd to attempt it in such a sea; one risks losing the gear and frightening the whale."

In the meantime all the crew are busy clearing the line of the harpoon, and we are still in doubt whether we have hit him, but the suspense does not last long, as immediately a "look out" is shouted by the captain, and the line runs out with terrific speed and a great noise. "Full speed ahead," is shouted below; but the ship is running double her highest speed, such is the strength of the whale which has her in tow. The animal is fleeing at the top of its speed, and we follow right through the breaking seas. Ten minutes pass by—they seem ten hours—when suddenly a blood-streaked column of water is seen on the horizon. It is our whale! Another moment, and a clear one is seen. It is his companion which follows her wounded mate. Both go down; the line does not run so fast; the wounded whale appears once or twice more, when he sinks. The whale is dead. After a while the hauling-in begins very carefully, and finally the great body rises to the surface, the ship heeling over. After a few hour's hard work in securing the monster to the vessel with chains and ropes, the course is shaped for home.

"What do you think of it, captain?" I ask.

"Not bad," he answered simply. "Steward, give the crew a drink all around! And let us have something to eat."

The whale measured more than eighty feet in length.

Once more his widowed mate takes a turn round the ship, when she stands out to sea; while we, with our noble spoil in tow, slowly make for the whale station in South Veranger.—Chambers' Journal.

The Animate and Inanimate in a Fire.

Three nights ago Mr. Israel Switzheimer, a South Clark street pawnbroker, was awakened by the smell of smoke. He and his wife and three children sleep in the rear of his store. In an instant he was out of bed, dragging his wife after him.

"Der house is burning oop, Rachel!" he shouted.

"Der schildren, der schildren! Pring der schildren oudt quick!" screamed Mrs. Switzheimer.

"Der schildren!" yelled Switzheimer, aghast. "Der schildren can valk. Get quick der vaches oudt of der show-cases, Rachel."—Chicago News.

An End to Bone Scraping

Edward Shepherd, of Harrisburg, Ill. says: "Having received so much benefit from Electric Bitters, I feel it my duty to let suffering humanity know it. Have had a running sore on my leg for eight years; my doctors told me I would have to have the bone scraped or leg amputated. I used, instead, three bottles of Electric Bitters and seven boxes of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and my leg is now sound and well."

Electric Bitters are sold at fifty cents a bottle, and Bucklen's Arnica Salve at 25 cents per box by F. Sherer & Co.

A Novel Feature in Investments

The whole country, after having undergone a period of depression is now asking itself, what business has least been affected and uninjured?

Such a business, industry or corporation that can make a better showing now than before the crisis, attracts the attention of capital, merits the confidence of investors, and is being eagerly sought for.

There is such a business, and it has heretofore been monopolized by English and Scotch capital until some three hundred millions have been invested in the Ranche and Cattle business of this great country.

Foremost amongst the strongest, richest and most successful American Companies stand the United States Land and Investment Company, 145 Broadway, New York, which is now offering $500,000, First Mortgage six per cent 10-year bonds, for subscription at 90 cash, or at par, upon a novel installment feature which appeals to the farmer as well as the banker, the clerk and mechanic as well as the millionaire, and to all who desire to invest their savings at better rates of interest than any bank will allow.

This company issues certificates of indebtedness in one and five dollars, each representing an installment, and when the investor has purchased $50 of these certificates he becomes entitled to a $100 gold bond, First Mortgage, bearing 6 per cent interest, which he can obtain upon presenting his certificates or forwarding them by letter to the company's office, at 145 Broadway, N. Y.

The remaining $50 due on the bond being payable to the company in monthly installments not exceeding $5.

The bond commences to draw interest on delivery the same as if fully paid. In addition to which the company give as a bonus, free, one fully paid up share of stock of the value of $25.

Those desiring to buy their bonds outright for cash can do so at 10 per cent discount in $100, $500 or $1,000 bonds and receive one, five or ten shares of stock free. The bonds are secured by property owned absolutely by the company, estimated to be worth $3,000,000, and this money received from sale of bonds will be invested in cattle, the income from which it is estimated will yield 30 per cent upon the stock after paying 6 per cent on the bonds.

Applications are being forwarded in great numbers daily, and all those who desire to subscribe should send at once for Prospectuses and full information to the United States Land and Investment Company, 145 Broadway, New York.—"The N. Y. Financier."

—There is no hope that Rock river will be remembered in the River and Harbor appropriation bill, as it is said in Washington that the streams having the best chance are those that have to have a sprinkling cart run up and down them all summer to lay the dust in their beds.

—The volume of water in Rock river is rapidly decreasing, and the upper dam will probably stand the pressure upon it. There are some weak and ragged looking places in the dam, but the "knowing ones" claim they are caused by the "apron" being washed away, and that the dam is uninjured.

—Daly the news comes to our ears of happy ones who will soon assume the joys and cares of married life. The latest report is that of a wedding where a gentleman, prominent among the Janesville democrats, will be one of the contracting parties, and a young lady of the Second City will be the other. The cards are not out.

—The revenue received by the city of Rockford on account of the water works during the year 1885, as per report of Superintendent Lakin, was $12,778.48; the operating expenses, including the $1,120.50 for repairs of an old engine, were $10,835.86; showing a net revenue of $1,942.62. With the completion of the artesian wells, it is estimated that the revenue this year will be largely increased. No credit is given for fire service of hydrants.

He proposes to represent nothing but the best companies, and will furnish reliable indemnity at favorable rates. His many friends in the city and county will wish him abundant success.

—The east side fire steamer was out last evening for the purpose of "warming up," and at the same time clearing out the alley just north of the engine house. While playing, and when the alley was filled with spectators, a section of old hose burst, many of the spectators receiving a severe wetting. A little boy, who had on his best clothes, carried too long at the weak point, and he felt awfully bad that circumstances compelled him to return to his home and forego the pleasures of the evening.

—The Milwaukee Sentinel says that last night about two o'clock the quiet at Bay View was broken by the long roll of the drum, followed by the hoarse shouts of the officers and the rattle of the accoutrements, as the men fell into line. The alarm was occasioned by one of the Bower City Rifles, who started up in his sleep yelling "Here they come; here they come," and fired his rifle at the imaginary foe. The excited soldier was asleep when he fired, and his comrades were compelled to arouse him even after the alarm was sounded. The Rifles are winning any amount of glory in the field.

NOON DAY FIRE.

The Power House of the Electric Light Company Damaged by Fire.

At 12:30 o'clock this afternoon an alarm of fire was sounded on the west side fire bell which summoned the fire department to the little frame building in the rear of the Captain Norcross' River street block, occupied by the Electric light company as their dynamo and power building. The entire department responded in quick time, and in a very few minutes had four powerful streams of water pouring onto the flames. The building, constructed entirely of wood, ceiled inside, and covered with a sheet iron roof, the ceiling being lined with paper board, made it very difficult to get at he fire, which had worked its way between the studding to the roof. After tearing away a portion of the siding the department succeeded in reaching the bed of the fire, and it was speedily extinguished.

The loss on the building will not exceed $200. The electric light machinery is considerably damaged, to what extent is not now known. The building and machinery is owned by Capt. Pliny Norcross, who has an insurance of $4,800 with companies represented in this city by L. B. Kinney as follows: City of London, $1,500; Hamberg-Bremen, $1,500 Citizens of Pittsburg, $1,500; and $300 on the building in the German of Peoria.

The fire was the effect of carelessness in allowing a party of small boys to play around a bonfire a short distance from the building. A little five year old son Mr. J. L. Gilbert, proprietor of the restaurant in the Norcross block, states that he was at play around this building with another boy, somewhat larger than himself, but whose name he does not know. Master Gilbert says that this boy set fire in the corner of the building, and then said to him—"See, I've set fire to the building." The boy ran away, and little Gilbert hastened to his father, telling him what had happened, and his father gave the alarm, at the same time Mr. E. P. Doty stepped out of the mill and discovered the smoke. The fire had gained considerable headway when discovered, and it was very fortunate that it occurred at a time when people were on hand to give the alarm.

A Strike by Both Parties.

There was a strike among the boy strippers in one of the tobacco warehouses in this city recently. They wanted three cents a pound for sorting, and when this was refused they went out, stern resolve showing on every feature where the dirt had flaked off enough to let it shine through. It is understood that a riot took place immediately after they reached their respective homes, but all that is known definitely is that two of them were "spanked" and three were given their choice between going to work or not having any dinner. The same influences may have been brought to bear upon the others, but if so they kept still about it, only winking solemnly at each other. All the hands were seated in their accustomed places when afternoon came and nothing has been said since about labor agitation.

Circuit Court.

The case of the state against Martin Corcoran, of Madison, is still on trial before Judge Bennett. This case first came up in the municipal court at the capital. It was taken to the circuit court and from there a change of venue was taken to the Rock county circuit. There is a great deal of testimony to be taken, and the arguments will not be made before to-morrow. The jurors who are not impanelled have been excused for the day.

This will be done first, because if any difficulty should occur the Milwaukee troops could be called out much sooner than those living outside of the city.

A Border Amazon.

Among the noted prisoners brought to Fort Smith a few days ago was the noted Belle Starr, a celebrated character on the border of the Indian Territory. This woman is about 34 years old. Her father was a border farmer in Missouri, where she went to school in childhood and married one of Quantrell's gang. She has since married and lived with border outlaws, several of whom have died with their boots on. Her transient homes were a refuge for this class of riders, whose bravery she admired. She was a sympathizer in their misfortunes, and is said to have been a discreet adviser in their councils. Among her acquaintances of other days were the Younger and James boys. Her present husband is an outlaw named Starr, who has been before the courts for horse stealing. Her home is on the Canadian river on the side of a mountain. The river makes a sharp curve around the mountain, and the house is only accessible at one point, and commands a view of every direction. Belle Starr is a Helen McGregor in courage, and a Di Vernon on horseback. She is an expert shot with a pistol, and always carries a pair of the best. She grooms her own horse. She carries with her a short and heavy riding whip, which she flourishes at the too familiar approach of strangers. Several masked men attacked and robbed a house a few miles from her residence a short time ago. The proprietor of the house testifies that one of the robbers was a woman in disguise. This led to her arrest. She was released on bond for trial, mounted her beautiful horse and went off on a gallop to her mountain home in the territory—Kansas City Times.

Concerning the Circus.

Beloit Free Press: Last evening Bur, Robbin's circus arrived in the city via the C. & N. W. R. R. from Janesville where they had spent the winter. A number of the show "bosses" were engaged in closing up the car-shops owned by Mr. Robbins at Janesville, and unfortunately (the train, containing the show started without them. Thinking that the train would slack up within a mile or so, they completed their task and started down the track, but not finding their train, returned to discover that they had nailed up a couple of tramps in their shops, who had during their absence "broken up" things generally in an attempt to make an escape. Notwithstanding the absence of the bosses, everything moved along well here and tents and appurtenances were soon in place. A very creditable procession was made at 10:30 o'clock this morning. Two bands discoursed some excellent music. Their route was down State to Broad, Broad to Park Avenue, Park avenue to School, School and Bridge to Third, Third to C, C to Fourth, Fourth to Bridge and return. A large number of people were assembled along the line of march. Mr. Robbins has the material to give a good performance, and it is to be hoped that he may meet with success. His route ahead is as follows: Sycamore, 7th; Geneva, 8th, and Ottawa, 10th. Some two hundred and sixty or seventy people are connected with the show.

The Weather.

At one o'clock p. m. the register was 60 degrees above zero. Clear with northeast wind. For the corresponding hours one year ago the register was 30 and 40 degrees above zero.

Quinine for the Scarlet Fever

During the late epidemic of scarlet fever in Peoria, a writer in The Medical Monthly claims to have successfully used quinine to prevent the spread of the disease in families as soon as a single member was attacked. In no instance, he says, has it attacked any other member of the family unless the attack came on in a day or two after commencing the quinine. He gave two or three grains three times a day, according to the age of the child: then, after four or five days, the dose may be lessened; but the use of the quinine must be kept up for three weeks, or until the sick members of the family are fully recovered.—Chicago News.

AT EVENTIDE.

Crimson, and gold, and russet
Against the blazing sky,
The trees stood up in the sunset
As the wind went wandering by.
Crimson, and gold, and russet;
And a drifting haze of rain
Caught up the western glory,
And gave it back again.

Just so, when life is sinking,
To the twilight time of tears,
Worn with the fret and fever,
The turmoil of the years,
Light from the land we're nearing,
Falls on the path we tread,
Like the smiles we see through weeping,
On the faces of our dead.

STEAMBOAT MARRIAGE AND DIVORCE.

How the Passengers Brought About a Wedding on Short Notice.

At a landing below Baton Rouge about thirty colored people came aboard the boat. Among them was a likely young woman with whom one of the colored roustabouts at once fell in love. We all noticed them making eyes at each other during the afternoon, and finally a gentleman from Illinois said:

"I don't see any reason why they shouldn't marry."

"But have we a clergyman aboard?" queried another.

A third gentleman replied that we had, and he went off and hunted up a man wearing spectacles and a choker and informed him that his services would soon be required. The man from Illinois went down to the colored woman and asked if she thought the roustabout would make a good husband, and she replied in the affirmative. He went over to the man, and he owned up that he was dead gone. The couple were at once brought up-stairs to the cabin, and all the passengers collected. We chipped in $1 apiece, the clergyman gave his services gratis, and the marriage ceremony went on in good style. After everybody had got through congratulating the happy couple some one inquired of the groom what he was going to do.

"Dat's what I doan' 'zactly know," he replied, as he stood with uncovered head.

"You have money enough to go to housekeeping in New Orleans."

"Yes, but de ole woman would hunt me out down dar."

"Old woman! Your mother?"

"No, sah; my wife! I'se got a wife an' fo' chillen in Vicksburg."

At this the bride uttered a yell, the clergyman sank into the nearest chair, and the silence became profound and painful. We had gone and married a married man to a young woman.

"I'twan't my fault," said the groom, as he jingled our collection in his pocket.

"I didn't know nuffin' 'bout it," added the bride as she walked out of the cabin.

The preacher said nothing could be done, but the captain took the groom by the ear and remarked:

"John Henry, you can keep the money, but you let that woman alone. If I find you speaking to her I'll break your neck. Move along, now."

And that was a Mississippi river marriage and divorce.—Detroit Free Press.

The Myth of the First Teapot.

The myth of the first teapot is that the island of Mauvi, now sunk deep in the sea near Formosa, was once a wealthy and prosperous country, where the richest and finest porcelain in the world was made. The tops of the high rocks of this island are visible now at the low water, and divers go down into the blue depths and recover old teapots, shaped like small barrels, with short, narrow necks and of a greenish-white color. They used to be worth $35,000 apiece when cracked and fissured and having shells sticking to them. Those were the birth-marks by which connoisseurs identified them as belonging to the very oldest family of teapots in the world.

The legend is that the king of Mauvi was a pious man; that he duly crooked his knees before his brazen and wooden gods, and showed devoted reference to them in all his affairs. He was warned in a dream that when two of their chief idols grew red then would the island be suddenly destroyed because of the great wickedness of its people. Some wags of his court conceived the idea of playing a trick upon his majesty, and went in the night and stained both images a vivid carmine. When the king observed that his dream had come true he instantly put to sea and laid his course for China. And none too soon, for the island, with its rascals who dared to paint things red, sank out of sight with all its treasures of lovely porcelain—the earth's first-born tea cups and saucers and pots and kettles.—Clara Doty Bates in Chicago News.

Increasing Danger of Counterfeits.

Professor Louis Magnier predicts that paper money will ultimately disappear before the increasing danger of counterfeits. Photography, photo-engraving and all sorts of improved lithographic methods have even now made it possible to produce almost absolute fac-similes of almost any combination of paper and colors. A few weeks ago it was discovered that an association of Italian counterfeiters had issued millions of treasury notes. Now it turns out that Egypt, too, is deluged with most artistic counterfeits. Both the Turks and the local government have offered large sums for the discovery of the artists.—Felix L. Oswald in Cincinnati Enquirer.

Danger of a Little Learning.

Teacher—Why, Freddie, how did you get those black and blue welts on your arm?

Scholar—Them's your fault, teacher.

Teacher—My fault! What do you mean?

Scholar (sobbing reminiscently)—Why, you told me it was a poor rule that didn't work both ways. So when I went home I took pa's new two-foot rule that doubles up on a hinge and bent it back till it worked both ways, and then pa said I'd broken the joints, and he went and got the razor-strap. I think it was a mean trick to play on a feller, and I'll never forgive you.—Tid-Bits.

Stereotyped Resolutions of Condolence.

This is a great age for saving time and trouble. An organization to which I belong have a lot of printed memorial resolutions and whenever a member drops off they just ship his name in the proper place. The committee appointed to prepare resolutions on his death sign their names, and the stereotyped resolutions are sent to the bereaved family. It saves a great deal of trouble, but is rather a ghastly way of condoling with bereaved people, and looks as if we anticipated a rush of deaths, and wanted to prepare for it.—Judge E. A. Noonan.

Fined His Wife for Interruption.

Justice of the Peace Kurganowski, of the province of Perm, in Perm, in Russia, while holding court was twice interrupted by his wife—once with the announcement that dinner was ready, and again that the soup was getting cold, whereupon he fined her three rubles for disturbing the dignity of his court, and then paid the money from his own pocket.—Chicago Tribune.

I used, instead, three bottles of Electric Bitters and seven boxes of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and my leg is now sound and well."
